1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 19 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yubakami et al (4,758,275).

Yubakami et al discloses a composition including a plurality of magnetic particles having both hydrophilic and hydrophobic layers (column 1, lines 7-17; column 2, lines 17-32).

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 20-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 21-24 are indefinite in that they appear to be claims dependent from the composition of claim 19 since they claim "The magnetically guided carrier composition", however they fail to state that they are dependent on claim 19, such as "The magnetically guided carrier composition of claim 19". Also claim 20 depends from claim 26, however there are only 24 claims listed.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen et al (5,921,244) in view of Yubakami et al.

Chen et al discloses delivering coated magnetic particles into a patient's vascular system upstream of the targeted area and applying a magnetic field in the vicinity of the target area to draw the magnetic particles towards the target area. Chen et al while teaching the magnetic particles having a coating does not specifically teach using a coating having a hydrophobic coating or the particular size of the particles and coating layer. With respect to the sizes while Chen et al does not specifically teach the size, Chen et al does disclose that the magnetic particles can have physical dimensions smaller than conventional magnets (column 5, lines 18-26) and the courts have shown that a change in size is considered to be an obvious expedient to one skilled in the art. Therefore a modification to make the particles as small as possible would have been obvious to one skilled in the art since this would provide a less intrusive material into the body. With respect to the coating, Yubakami et al discloses that it is known to provide a hydrophobic coating on magnetic particles, therefore a modification of Chen et al such that the coating is a hydrophobic coating would have been obvious based upon the suitability of the particular coating for the intended use.

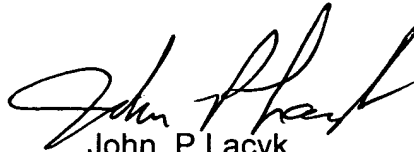

7. Claims 15-18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Rioux et al and Wilk et al are cited to further show the state of the art.
